It is our pleasure to introduce you to the first issue of Research in: Agricultural & Veterinary Sciences, which is scheduled to be published by "Jomard Publishing" as an electronic, open access journal.

Our ultimate goal is to reach the status of a journal that is citated in the wide range of international indexes within the scope of Veterinary, Agriculture and Food. In achieving this goal, the supreme efforts of the editors, consultants, referees, authors and readers are required.

We would like to point out once again that we are ready and determined to make every effort to pass the jurnal into publication life and achieve the targeted level.

In the publication of the first issue, we thank to editors, editorial board, advisors, referees and everyone who contributed to the writing, especially the writers of the articles.
